

Weld WORKS Labor Team

One Group – One Meeting – Multiple Labor Services

Employment Services of Weld County, Upstate Colorado Economic Development and Aims Community College, have partnered to help employers quickly recruit, train and further develop their workforce.

The Weld WORKS Labor Team is designed to provide technical assistance to both new companies looking to locate to the region as well as existing employers expanding or facing employment challenges. The Team identifies labor development opportunities by comprehensively reviewing and managing various local, county and state Workforce Assistance Programs, including:

- Colorado First/Existing Industry Training Grant
- Assessment and Learning Labs
- OJT and Apprenticeship Work Based Learning Programs
- Bright Futures Education Stipend
- Certification and Degree Programs
- Customized Training for Employers
- Labor Market Information & Statistics
- Other Business Assistance Programs

Weld WORKS is a small “working group” of labor, education and economic development professionals that meet the fourth Monday of each month and as needed. Other organizations (municipal, university, college, etc.) will be invited to employer meetings, as warranted.
